

Gardenia and rose

Day face cream

A light day cream protecting the skin from the harmful impact of uv-A and uv-B rays. Gardenia stem-cell extract and natural rose oil regenerate the faded and sagging face skin, assisting the collagen synthesis and slowing down the ageing processes.

The product contains:

Gardenia stem-cell extract - regenerates the sagging facial skin. It stimulates collagen synthesis and slows down the aging process. With soothing and tone-up effect. Improves skin elasticity and helps restore its firmness and healthy appearance.

Rose oil- contains 300 proven valuable substances that represent 86% of its composition. The remaining 14% are ingredients in very small quantities, however they are very important for its quality. The essential rose oil is the "oil for women". It is used in aromatherapy for treatment of reproductive system disorders. It acts as a very powerful aphrodisiac, especially for women with emotional disorders, which lead to sexual problems. Rose oil is suitable for all skin types but it is most preferable for dry, sensitive and aging skin. It has a tonifying and astringent effect on the capillaries, as well as on the blood circulation as a whole, which makes it very suitable for redness-prone skin. It has a beneficial effect on dermatitis and eczema. It has an anti-inflammatory and healing effect in case of sunburns.

Use: apply onto cleansed and dry face skin in the morning for protection throughout the day.
